The Late Fight in the Klamath Lake Country

The following dispatches forwarded to Department Headquarters at San Francisco, have been published:

HEAD QUARTERS, FORT KLAMATH, Oregon, Sept 24, 1867.

SIR:—I have the honor to report that I started from this post on the 2d inst., on a scout against the Snake Indians, with fifty-one (51) men of Company "A," First U. S. Cavalry, ten (10) Klamath Indians and one civilian (Mr. M. R. Pearson), taking twenty days' rations on pack mules. I took a north easterly course, direct toward Silver Lake. My route for the first three days lay through a mountainous, heavily timbered country, with small valleys at intervals of fifteen to twenty miles, affording good grass and water. On the 6th, when near Silver Lake, I struck a fresh foot trail, which after following about four miles led to a camp of about twenty five Indians, situated on an arm of the Lake. The country being open and level, the Indians discovered us in time to escape by wading and swimming to the opposite shore, a distance of about four hundred yards. We succeeded only in capturing one woman and one child, who tried to conceal themselves in the grass. After destroying the camp, I proceeded down the west side of the lake, and at sundown the advance guard surprised a small camp of Indians, which they immediately charged, killing one and capturing three. I started early on the morning of the 7th, followed an Indian trail round the south end of the lake and across the divide to Summer Lake, which lies nearly due south of and about fifteen miles from Silver Lake. The eastern shore of the lake appearing rocky and barren, I moved down the west side, which is fertile and well watered by small streams from the mountains. At 3 P M the advance guard discovered an Indian camp well up on the side of mountain, and reached it only in time to see the Indians running up the bluffs, about half a mile away. At 4 P M I went into camp, where I learned from the woman captured at Silver Lake, through a Klamath interpreter, that a band of Indians were encamped on a large creek (not laid down on the map) which flows east into an extensive marsh about midway between Silver and Albert Lakes. Knowing the Indians would be warned of my approach if I delayed till morning, I broke camp at 3 P. M. and started for a night march. At 3 A. M., the 8th, I halted within one mile of the creek spoken of, and stood "to horse" till dawn of day, when I again moved forward, and after following down the north side of the creek a short distance, a smoke was seen ascending in the valley, near the mouth of the creek, and about three quarters of a mile away. I immediately charged across the intervening space, and reached the camp before it was fairly daylight, and before the Indians were aware of my approach, sending a party of men below to cut off their retreat to the marsh, and one above to prevent their escape to the mountains. I dismounted and charged the camp on three sides. The Indians seeing all chance of escape cut off, received us with yells of defiance, shots from two rifles and one revolver and a shower of arrows. The fighting was at short range and was over in ten minutes. Twenty three Indians were killed and fourteen captured; only three escaped. Two chiefs, "Chichocchox" and "Choctooh," signers of the treaty of Oct., 1864, and one influential Doctor, were among the killed. The casualties on our side were as follows: Private Simon Askins, arrow wounds in neck and leg; Pvt. Allen Boyd, arrow wound in thigh; Yerkermuk (Klamath Indian) arrow wound in arm. We had one horse killed and seven wounded. On the 9th, I marched to Lake Albert, and seeing no more signs of Indians and being encumbered with wounded men and prisoners, I started on the morning of the 10th on my return to this post. On my arrival at Goose Lake, I found I would be short of rations before reaching the post, and my animals needing rest, I remained in camp five days while I sent to Camp Bidwell, Cal., for rations. On the 17th I resumed the march and reached here on the 22d. I am much indebted to the commissioned officers and privates of the company, for their gallantry and uniform good conduct during the expedition. Civilian M. R. Pearson also behaved very handsomely, as did eight of the Klamath Indians who were with me. Very respectfully, your obt. servt.

(Signed) J. F. SMALL.

CAMP LOGAN, OREGON, October 6th, 1867.

Lieut. R. Strong, A. A. A. G.—LIEUTENANT: I have the honor to report that on Thursday last (Oct. 3d), learning that three or four Indians had that morning, at about eight o'clock, plundered the house of Mr. Howe, a few miles east of this Post, (taking therefrom a Henry rifle and 175 pounds of ammunition, and other articles,) I sent seven men in pursuit.

Lt. Jas. Pike, 1st Cav., at his own request, was sent in command.

He camped at Douglass that night. Next morning, with Rogers and Axe as guides, he took the trail, followed it in the direction of Mormon Basin. Discovering fresh sign, he took a carbine from one of the men, and followed by the guides only, having halted the men, he went on to investigate, and soon came in sight of three Indians engaged in the war dance. Giving a yell and a shout with reckless daring, he rushed forward, the Indians disappearing in the low brush. He found the camp to consist of three wickiups, capable of lodging six each, and one only large enough for two. Finding a rifle, left by the Indians, he seized it by the muzzle and struck it across a rock to destroy it. The rifle exploded, lodging the ball in his left thigh, inflicting a dangerous wound. He was brought back to Douglass the same evening. Drs. Dunbar and Holmes went to his assistance, but it was thought best by them not to operate that night. The ball was extracted after the return here yesterday evening.

Lt. A. B. Kauffman, 8th Cav., is now out with fifteen men in pursuit of the same party. He left here yesterday morning.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant.
(Signed) DUDLEY SEWARD,
Capt 8th Cavalry, Commanding.

REMOVAL OF ASSASSINS' REMAINS—A Washington telegram, dated October 3d, says:

On Tuesday, in accordance with orders received at the Washington arsenal by Gen. Ramsey, commandant of the post, from Gen. Grant, the bodies of the assassination conspirators and that of Henry Wirz, the Andersonville jailor, were removed from their graves and reinterred in another portion of the grounds.

This removal was rendered necessary by the projected improvements of the arsenal grounds. The body of J. W. Booth was buried in what was known as the wareroom of the penitentiary building. It was enclosed in an ammunition box. After the grave was filled up with dirt the brick flooring was replaced. The burial having been accomplished, the windows were boarded up and the door made secure, Secretary Stanton taking with him the key.

The key was kept at the War office till a few weeks ago, when it was returned to the arsenal officers on the receipt of orders for the removal of the bodies, including Booth's, on Tuesday. The laborers were at once set to work, which they soon accomplished, taking them from the graves before mentioned and carrying them to No. 1 warehouse where a trench was dug, a few feet from the north wall, in this trench, the bodies were placed and as secrecy had been enjoined, but few persons were aware that the removals had been made. It would seem, from this account, that the government does not intend to give up the bodies to their relatives. The bodies of Booth, Payne, Harrold, Atzerott, Wirz and Mrs. Surratt were placed in a common grave.

JEFF. DAVIS IGNORED IN MONTREAL.—The Chicago Republican says:

There is no foundation for the idea that seems to prevail that Jeff. Davis is treated like a little king in Canada. He has for some months occupied an inferior house in Montreal, and his presence in that city is a matter of total indifference of the majority of those who live there. That he is not surrounded by any numerous cortege may be readily seen from the fact that a day scarcely passed over his head that he is not seen at the St. Lawrence Hotel, where his presence created no more excitement than that of any other person who drops in to hear the news and what is going on. His departure for Montreal will cause no regret, and his presence in Toronto will create a nine days talk, when he will be dropped.

The Memphis Post says that it does not hear of a single Agricultural Fair in West Tennessee, nor along the Mississippi from Cairo to New Orleans.

The Chicago Press on the Sale of Mrs. Lincoln's Effects.

The Chicago Evening Post of October 7th says:

The question so unpleasantly opened by Mrs. Lincoln's recent action is a very simple one indeed. What Mrs. Lincoln needs, what Mrs. Lincoln claims, what Mrs. Lincoln thinks about the war and the Republican party, what conceptions she has of the obligations which individual politicians bearing that name are under to her personally—all this is entirely apart from the question. The affair concerns principles of simple justice, as between the Government and Mrs. Lincoln.

After serving one term with distinguished patriotism and prudence, Mr. Lincoln came to the close of his period in the very midst of the critical stage of the war, and of the epoch which it signalized. The people deemed it necessary that he should remain President until the "high argument" was decided, and to this desire Mr. Lincoln yielded, finding also in a re election the gratification of a very natural desire to, as he expressed it, to see the thing through. In the first year of his new term he was stricken down, but if the assassin had not hastened his death, it would undoubtedly have been premature under the weight of solicitude and labor incessantly imposed upon him.

The fact is, that abandoning a pursuit in which he was on the road both to pecuniary and professional success, he gave all his powers of heart and head and hand to his country—nay, gave life itself. The fact is, that amid patriotic engrossments he found absolutely no time or energy for personal aggrandizements, and a premature and sudden death left his family with only such means of subsistence (in the main) as the nation should see fit to provide.

In this view of the case, all that Mr. Lincoln would have earned as President, had he not sacrificed his life to his country, is due to his estate. This is not generosity, it is justice. If not imposed by the letter of the law, it is enjoined by the spirit of equality which should give life to the law.

From this point of view, we commend the manner in which the Chicago Tribune has commented upon the subject, and we "trust that the Illinois delegation, irrespective of party, at the ensuing session of Congress, will insist upon an appropriation of the residue of the salary which President Lincoln would have received had he lived out his term:"

The Tribune refers to the subject of Mrs. Lincoln's pecuniary embarrassment in an excellent spirit. In regard to the knowledge possessed by citizens of her pecuniary condition says:

Our citizens knew that she resided in Chicago, but she was never seen, and her pecuniary circumstances were wholly unknown except by vague rumor; and if she mentioned it to any one it was under the injunction of secrecy, and no public use could be made of the information.

But now that the seal is broken and the injunction of secrecy removed there will be no excuse for non action or neglect. The widow of President Lincoln must have a competence.

We trust that the Illinois delegation, irrespective of party, at the ensuing session of Congress, will insist upon an appropriation of the residue of the salary which President Lincoln would have received had he lived out his term. And, in the meantime, the friends and admirers of Mrs. Lincoln, and those who received favors at his hands, can testify to their respect for his memory and appreciation of the benefits he conferred upon them, by making up purses of greenbacks and forwarding them to the widow without delay.

The Times leads off with a column on Radicalism and Mrs. Lincoln, in the course of which it says:

The only light in which this affair should be examined is with reference to the claims of Mrs. Lincoln upon the country, and with further reference to the character of the party of which her husband was a member. We are of the opinion that history may be vainly challenged to produce a case in which there can be found an equal amount of meanness and ingratitude.

And finally:

Such is Radicalism—a fawning slave to power, but infinitely insolent and intolerant to weakness. The best thing that it can now do is to buy up from Mrs. Lincoln, at half price, and to preserve her from absolute want, the laces and bijouterie which it once gave to purchase her favor.

Upon the same subject the Republican says:

Now that the subject has been brought thus prominently before the public in a manner scarcely to be commended on the score of good taste, we hope that it will not be permitted to sleep without a statement of facts from some authentic source, or a thorough investigation. Since the subject has been made matter of newspaper comment, we are guilty of no indelicacy in saying that the well-founded impression with those best acquainted with Mr. Lincoln's affairs is, that he left his family, though not wealthy, in at least comfortable circumstances. This much is due to a country which reveres his memory.

Reconstruction Commenced.

(From the Chicago Tribune.)

The result of the preliminary voting in Louisiana and Alabama is, that in both, State Conventions have been ordered to be held under the terms and upon the conditions prescribed by the Reconstruction Acts of Congress. The strategy of the enemy has failed. The preliminary vote was on the question of Convention or no Convention, and for the election of delegates to the Convention, in case a majority of the registered voters called it.

The rebels did not go near the polls, and gave no sign of contest. The result in New Orleans was, that less than one-half of the persons registered voted, but enough turned out in the country precincts to make the requisite majority of the whole registration. The Union men seem to have been ignorant or asleep to the fact that non voting was the most efficacious means of defeating reconstruction. In Alabama affairs were managed better, and the result is, as indicated by the returns received, that the State has voted for a Convention by a decided majority. The first steps, therefore, have been taken in both States. Reconstruction has taken root in Alabama and Louisiana, and will be cultivated until there is a full fruition. In each of these States there will be held, within as short a time as possible, a Convention.

The work of framing a Constitution cannot be a very protracted one. The old State Constitutions, divested of their barbarisms, and invested with the cardinal features of republicanism, will answer all practical purposes. These Constitutions will be submitted to the people, and, when ratified, as they will be, these two States will resume their places as parts of the political organization of the Union.

Forewarned is to be forearmed. The little dodge that was so nearly proving successful in Louisiana will be guarded against in Georgia, Virginia, the Carolinas and the other States, and in all of them Conventions will be ordered, new constitutions framed and adopted, and all the ten States be restored and represented in Congress before the first of April next.

The country has reason to rejoice at the promise of a speedy and final conclusion of the great work of reconstruction. Up to this time the President has kept the business from the hands of the people most interested in it. He has baffled all the efforts of Congress to bring order out of chaos. But, in spite of him, the work has reached the hands of the people, and it cannot now be arrested by any act of his. The plan of reconstruction once put into practical operation by the people will vindicate its wisdom, and the popular enthusiasm in its favor will sweep the discontented rebels, outlaws and their friends and partisans from all vestige of power and influence. The States will be restored, will be redeemed, and will be made free and republican, and will be firm upholders and defenders of the Union instead of its worst enemies.

CURE FOR TIPPLING.—We reprint the following, which we copy from the old Boston True Flag, for the benefit of those who want to sober:

A cure for an appetite for stronger drink—Sulphate of lime five grains, magnesia ten grains, peppermint water eleven drachms, spirit of nutmeg one drachm, to be taken twice a day. This preparation acts as a tonic and stimulant, and so partially supplies the place of the accustomed liquor, and prevents that absolute physical and moral prostration which follows a sudden breaking off from the use of stimulating drinks.

Will of Lieutenant General Winfield Scott

The following is the will of General Scott as it has been admitted to probate.

NEW YORK, November 2, 1864.

In the name of God, amen. I, Winfield Scott, of the United States Army, and a resident of New York, do make and constitute this my last will and testament, revoking all other wills and testaments, namely:

Imprimis.—After the payment of my funeral expenses which, considering the smallness of my effects, ought to be very moderate—and after the payment of my just debts—which at this time are less than $100—I desire that my property of every kind, real and personal, be divided among my three children, all daughters, as follows:

Item—I give, devise and bequeath to my executors hereinafter named, and to their survivors or survivor, and their and his successors, my house and lot of land in the city of New York known as 24 West Twelfth street in said city, and also all United States bonds and Treasury notes, and all shares in the capital stock of railroad and other corporations or companies of which I may die the possessor or owner, to have and to hold the same upon these trusts—that is to say, to collect and receive the rents, income, dividends and interest thereon at the regular periods as the same may accrue, and to apply the same so received, and in no wise or manner by anticipation, to the sole use of my eldest daughter, Cornelia Winfield, wife of Colonel H. L. Scott, for and during her natural life, and upon her death to assign, transfer and convey the said real and personal estate, and any other in which the same ... or any part thereof may be invested or reinvested, to the child or children, grandchild or children of my said daughter as may be surviving, and in such amounts or proportion as my said daughter, whether married or a widow, by her last will and testament, or other writing in the nature thereof designate, direct and appoint; and in default of such act, to assign and convey the same real and personal estate to her issue, if she should have any, as the law would divide an intestate's estate held in absolute ownership; but should my said daughter die without any surviving issue or lawful descendant, I give, devise and bequeath the aforesaid real and personal estate and the investment and reinvestment thereof to my lawful heirs in proportions as if I had died intestate in ... to the same. And I do hereby authorize and empower my executors hereinafter appointed, and the survivor or survivors of them, and their respective successors, in their discretion, but upon the written ... of my said daughter, Cornelia Winfield, to sell, assign and convey the real and personal estate ..., or any part ..., and to invest the proceeds thereof in other real and personal estate, and such investment or investments again to change and reinvest as may from time to time be ... advisable. But every such investment and reinvestment shall be held, taken and held for and upon the same trusts as the original real and personal estate afs. ...

Item—I further give and bequeath to my said daughter, Cornelia Winfield, my library, ... the few volumes I have marked with the name of one or the other of her sisters; my household, table and kitchen furniture, including the table silver heretofore given to her and in her use, now lodged in a trunk for safe keeping, with other silver (her husband's), in the State Bank, at Elizabeth, New Jersey; my Virginia gold medal and Louisiana sword ... given ... a gold medal and sword of ... my portrait in oil, by Ingham, and my fine copy, in oil, of Raphael's Madonna; and, finally, give and bequeath to my said daughter, Cornelia Winfield, all my other ... not bequeathed ... after ... of.

Item—I give and bequeath my ... (silver mounted), ... the Polish-American ... had ... when he fell, to the U. S. ... Military ... and gilt ... the sword that I wore in my Mexican ... to my ... Winfield Scott Hoyt.

Item—To my ... and ..., Camilla Scott Hoyt, wife of ..., and Marcella S..., wife of C. C. ..., I have heretofore given ... equal portions of my ..., and I ... give and bequeath to each of them ... of my money that may fall due to my ... my death, from ... & Co., the publishers and sellers, under their contract with me for the publication and sale of my memoirs, written by myself.

Item—I hereby appoint executors of this, my last will and testament, the following friends, viz: John Chetwood, of Elizabeth, New Jersey; Gould Hoyt, one of my sons in law; R. R. Al..., a former Aid-de-Camp of mine, and Gen. Schuyler Hamilton, another ex-Aid-de-Camp, executors of this, my last will and testament, in the hope and with the request that each of them may act ... and execute the trust therein ...

WINFIELD SCOTT.

STEALING GENERALS.—General Pleasonton in his late speech at Philadelphia, speaking of the Democracy, said that the "meanest of its ... acts was the stealing of Andrew Johnson," and the most presumptuous of its attempts was its public effort to steal General Grant. Concerning this, he said:

"General Grant went into the War Department through the same motives which kept Stanton there—to prevent its falling into the hands of a traitor or Copperhead. He did not believe that Andrew Johnson fool, knave, silly drunkard as he was, and other little affairs that he would not mention would be fool enough to start a coup d'etat. The moment Andrew Johnson would issue the order to drive out Congress, General Grant would ignore it, issue a contrary order, and lay his mailed hand upon the shoulder of Andrew Johnson. [Intense and long continued cheering and applause.] General Grant was not the man to be subdued by one traitor after having crushed out millions of them."

Concerning the last attempt of the Democracy to pilfer two Generals of the army, he made these important statements:

"He could say here, that if Andrew Johnson and his friends expect to derive comfort from the Generals sent to fill the places of Sickles and Sheridan they will be mistaken. One of these Generals said in his presence, 'because I have been sent to relieve Sheridan some people think I am a Copperhead, but they will find that they are devilishly mistaken.' [Three cheers for Hancock with a hearty good will.] The Copperheads can't steal such an officer; it is too grand a larceny for their capacity or comprehension. He has fought too long in the loyal army to become a Copperhead now, and goes to administer the law as Congress made it. If he was not much mistaken they had caught a tartar in Canby, who was a most excellent officer and accomplished gentleman, a thorough patriot [three cheers for Canby]—and one who would never become the tool of Andrew Johnson and the Copperhead party."

Whoever wants a model of the blackguard's style of writing can hardly go amiss for it if he takes any Copperhead paper in the land. Here is something from the Jeffersonian, a paper published at Pontiac, (Mich.) which is done in a style that would elicit great admiration among the Copperheads of Oregon:

"For six years Democracy has felt humiliated and ashamed of itself, because forced into a wrong position. It has been a hypocrite and liar all through the war. The war is Black Republican property. What is "Gen." Sherman but a murderer, an invader of private rights, and a cotton thief? If the Democrats are mean enough to put in nomination any pup for President who ever wore shoulder straps during the abolition crusade, we hope he will be defeated, and we will do all in our power to accomplish that end."

Commenting on the decadence of Royalty, a contemporary remarks that "when our Puritan ancestors chopped off the head of Charles the First, they did not deal the kingly office half so hard a blow as the Prince of Wales did when he called upon Punch not to make fun of his royal mother. England had long since deprived royalty of its prerogatives, so that it has been only a costly pageant, but, now that it has lost its prestige, and can no longer command the superstitious reverence of the people, it is essentially gone altogether, and the mockery of a throne and a crowned head which are only a cost and not a power, cannot much longer be tolerated by a sensible people. Monarchy in England may be said to have died a natural death."

For Liberty and Loyalty.

In 1825 Macaulay wrote: "There is only one cure for the evils which newly acquired freedom produces—and that cure is freedom. When a prisoner leaves his cell he cannot bear the light of day;—he is unable to discriminate colors, or recognize faces. But the remedy is not to remand him to the dungeon, but to accustom him to the rays of the sun. The blaze of truth and liberty may at first dazzle and bewilder those who have become half blind in the house of bondage. But let them gaze on, and they will soon be able to bear it. In a few years men learn to reason. The extreme violence of opinion begins to subside. The scattered elements of truth cease to conflict and begin to coalesce. And at length a system of justice and order is educed out of the chaos. If men are to wait for liberty till they become wise and good, they may indeed wait forever."

In these eloquent words those who are croaking about the consequences of conferring liberty on millions in our own country who have heretofore been in the house of bondage, may find an answer to their dismal predictions. But they turn and say that they have nothing to urge against the policy which has made four millions of persons free; that is now an accomplished fact and they do not wish to disturb it. They object only to that policy which gives these people civil and politi[cal] rights. But this is only putting the objection against liberty itself in a new form. For what, under the state of things that surrounded those who had been delivered from a condition of servitude, would the name of liberty have been worth without any of the advantages it confers,—without the means of defending and preserving the freedom which had been acquired? The rebel States, as organized under the auspices of Johnson, but without authority of law, showed what they would do with the newly emancipated race. They were to be kept by law under all the disabilities belonging to a state of slavery, and to be deprived even of that partial protection which the laws enacted to sustain slavery and surrounded by the interest of the master, once conferred. Under any government of laws, civil rights justly belong to all who are free. With[out] these rights there is no fr[eedom]. And as the rebel States had all assumed to pass acts depriving the [emancipated] race of every right and of all means of protection under the laws, Cong[ress] undertook to correct these gross and unjust abuses. This was the origin of the Civil Rights Law, a m[easure] which is absolutely unassailable wherever justice is recognized and an enlighte[ned] public judgment governs. Here Con[gress] would have stopped had this work been acqu[iesced] in and a disposition been shown to reorganize the rebel States and restore them to the Union with a recognition of these principles. But as this was not done, one more step was n[ecessary]. To maintain the liberty of the emancipated race, to keep the rebel element in subjection and to insure a speedy restoration of the Union on a safe basis, all restrictions upon the exer[cise] of the elective franchise were removed. What kind of "liberty" the blacks would have had without the intervention of Congress, may be seen in the laws of every rebel State, enacted in 1865, laws which declared that the testimony of a [negro] should not be received in Court to maintain his rights or redress his wrongs, that no colored person should be permitted to hold real estate, that n[one] should quit the plantation on which they were employed, or receive more than a small stipulated sum for their labor. What kind of a Government we should have had, had the Johnson program[me] [prevailed], may be imagined by supposing C[ongress] controlled by those who had sat at Richmond plotting the overthrow of the Govern[ment]. Against this Government by traitors and against this flagrant injustice to the newly [emancipated] race, the people protested, and their pr[otest] was [heard] in the elections of 1866. They [demanded] universal liberty and a Govern[ment] [controlled] by loyal [men]. These two results must be and will be [secured]. The blacks will, hereafter have an opportunity to maintain their liberty and protect their rights, and traitors will be prevented from seizing the Government. Do not th[ese] ends justify the enactment of impartial suffrage in the South? To this question, when pr[esented] on its own merits and free from other [issues] which have caused division and perplexity in the late elections, we do not believe the people will return a negative answer.

If the [emancipated] race fail to show the highest capacity in the performance of their new duties, we must not condemn them utterly, but wait in patience and hope. At this place we cannot help transcribing still further from the same author from whom we cited the extract given at the introduction:

The final and permanent fruits of liberty are wisdom and moderation. Its immediate effects are often atrocious crimes and conflicting errors. It is just at this crisis that its ene[mies] love to exhibit it. They pull down the scaffolding from the half finished edifice; they point to the flying dust, the falling bricks, the comfortless rooms, the frightful irregularity of the whole appearance; and then ask in scorn where the promised splendor and comfort are to be found. If such miserable sophisms were to prevail there would never be a good house or a good government in the world.

Ariosto tells a pretty story of a fairy who, by some mysterious law her nature, was condemned to appear at certain seasons in the form of a foul and poisonous snake. Those who injured her during the period of her disguise, were forever excluded from participation in the blessings she bestowed. But to those who in spite of her loathsome aspect, pitied and protected her, she afterwards revealed herself in the beautiful and celestial form which was natural to her, accompanied their steps, granting all their wishes, filled their houses with wealth, made them happy in love and victorious in war. Such a spirit is liberty. At times she takes the form of a hateful reptile. She growls, she hisses, she stings. But wo to those who in disgust shall venture to crush her! And happy are those who, having dared to receive her in her degraded and frightful shape, shall at length be rewarded by her in the time of her beauty and her glory.

ONE SECRET OF SHERIDAN'S SUCCESS.—An article on General Sheridan in the Citizen shows that his skill in obtaining information from the enemy first attracted attention to him at the West. He organized scouts, who penetrated the enemy's lines, and whenever his superiors wished to learn anything concerning the foe they sent to Colonel Sheridan's regiment. A writer in the Times likewise notes the same peculiarity in connection with his operations in the Shenandoah Valley. He says:

It was one of Sheridan's peculiarities that he generally knew as much about the enemy as he did about his own army. He had learned, from his scouts, that Kershaw's division was surely to be ordered back to Richmond. "Being apprised of this fact," says he, "I had, for two weeks, patiently awaited his withdrawal before attacking, believing the condition of affairs throughout the country required great prudence on my part. In this view I was coinciding with the Lieutenant General commanding." General Grant, who visited Sheridan on the 17th of September, has recorded a very interesting reminiscence of the interview: "I met him at Charlestown," says he, "and he pointed out so distinctly how each army lay, what he could do the moment he was authorized, and expressing such confidence of success, that I saw there were but two words of instruction necessary—Go in! I asked him if he could get out his teams and supplies in time to make an attack on the enemy Tuesday morning. His reply was, that he could before daylight on Monday."

The Troy Times is sweet on Captain Raphael Semmes. Noticing his retirement from the Memphis Bulletin, it says: "Though a pretty good pirate, he made a poor editor, and his literary piracies were never appreciated."

Libby Creek Mines.

[From the Mountaineer.]

The news came to our city a few weeks ago that new gold fields had been discovered north of Pen d'Oreille Lake, which were thought to be rich and very extensive. This report is corroborated by a letter written by H. A. Houge, dated Pen d'Oreille, Idaho, Oct. 23d, 1867:

EDITOR MOUNTAINEER:—As there has been a good deal said as well as written in reference to the new mines discovered on Libby Creek (a tributary of the Kootenai), this fall, I propose to give my testimony in the case.

When below in September, I was asked by a great many different persons what I thought of the reported new mines. I invariably replied that I did not know of my own personal knowledge anything about them, and could not advise any person to go there, but that I was satisfied there had been good prospects found by the discovery party, and that I had every confidence that there would be a good mining camp in that vicinity another season. But when I returned, in the latter part of September, and saw many men returning from there, some pronouncing them a bilk, a humbug, others saying there were good surface diggings, but that they would be worked out this fall, whilst others said it would be a good Chinese camp, I confess I felt somewhat disappointed. Yet, upon closely interrogating these men, I learned none had prospected but very little, were in there but from one to three days, and in fact one-third of them had not been nearer than twenty miles of the mines. I did not feel satisfied but that, upon thorough prospecting, they would prove to be fair average mines; and being a newly discovered district, would offer more inducements to the adventurer and miner than would older camps. Upon the 18th inst., about twenty men arrived here from these mines, who have been there since the first of September last, prospecting. Many of them I know to be candid, reliable men and experienced miners, and they all unite on one thing—that they will pay, and that there will be a good average camp in there next season that will accommodate and pay hundreds of men. They have all located claims and intend returning as early in the spring as they can get provisions in, the want of which, and none to be obtained, forcing them to come out two or three weeks earlier than they would have done, could they have been obtained. I know these men are truthful and entirely reliable; none of them have any interest, or are in any way connected with the discovery party, and I am sure there will be a good camp there next spring. H. A. H.

Thus it will be seen that almost daily new mineral as well as agricultural resources are being discovered, which, from their location, are bound, to a greater or less extent, pay tribute to the Dalles. This probably will hurt the feelings of some of those who are constantly growling and saying, "the place is literally gone in."

PENNSYLVANIA.—One year ago the Twelfth Congressional District gave Dennison, Democratic candidate for Congress, a majority of 2,000. At the late election the Republicans gained 1,000 in Luzerne county alone on their vote last fall. They have likewise made gains in Susquehannah county, so that the contest is very close between Judge Woodward, the Democratic candidate, to fill the vacancy occasioned by Dennison's death, and Winthrop Ketchum, the Republican candidate.

Territorial Expansion.

Since the acquisition of Russian America and the addition thereby of nearly 100,000 square miles to the territory of the United States, the entire area of our national domain is 3,191,686 square miles. People are not afraid of the consequences of territorial expansion as they were fifty years ago. Then many thought it would be a source of weakness, and would infallibly result in disintegration. But at this time few are alarmed by such an idea. The facilities of commercial intercourse and the means of rapid travel over long distances, now unite portions of country which were once, in point of time, far remote from each other; and the continual shiftings of population from one quarter to another and the constant intercourse which, for various purposes, is kept up between the people of different sections of the country, have a powerful influence in making them homogeneous and assimilating them unto each other. The United States has yet acquired very little territory which has not been of use in a political, military, or commercial sense. Such, at least, has been the case with all the territory we have acquired from France, Spain and Mexico. It is yet to be seen just what the value of the territory lately acquired from Russia, will be. With the means of rapid transition from one place to another which is now growing up throughout the country, and with the tendency which travel and trade have to unify and cement different parts into a single nationality, the fear is being dispelled that the country will be weakened by enlargement of its boundaries. The tendency in Europe among the Great Powers is toward territorial expansion, and the diminutive nationalities are being swallowed up rapidly by the large nations. Europe of to-day cannot abide the arbitrary and absurd divisions of territory which were made before steam power, unifier of nations, brought people who were once divided by distance and time into close communication with each other. The demand for further centralization at this moment threatens another war in Europe, and from what we see of the tendency of the times, it seems highly probable that the conflict cannot long be delayed. The tendency to territorial expansion among the Great Powers of the world, is one of the most remarkable features of the present age. It finds its cause in the demands of a growing civilization which makes men better acquainted with each other and removes or modifies local distinctions and provincial peculiarities.

FINE, FINER, [FINEST] CLO[THES] and Gents' Furnishing Goods, and every article for Gents' wear is doubtless to be found at KOHN & FISHEL'S (St. Louis Store), where no man was yet known to leave the store without being satisfied. Ladies, too, are always pleased with Kohn & Fishel's prices for Dry Goods, and whenever they return home from having made a purchase of them, feel more contented, and satisfied that the St. Louis Store is the Cheapest Store in Oregon.

HAVING HAD MY ATTENTION CALLED TO A notice in the "MORNING OREGONIAN" of yesterday, signed by S. D. I make this statement because I have mentioned to my friends in adjoining towns that I was going into the Hotel on the 1st, and do not wish to be placed in a false position regarding it.

OREGON CITY ITEMS.—We clip the following items from the Oregon City Enterprise of Saturday, the 2d inst.: On next Tuesday evening there will be a meeting of the Daughters of Rebecca at the Hall of the I. O. O. F. in this city. All brothers and sisters in good standing are invited to attend.....Of late the chief topic before our courts seems to be "jurisdiction." This has spread into our city Government, and after several meetings to determine whether the city has jurisdiction over its streets, etc., the matter has resulted in a suit at law. ....A squash which weighed 82½ pounds was disposed of at raffle at Barlow & Fuller's in this city, on last Saturday evening. It was too large for one family to manage, hence several took chances in it. This specimen of the products of Oregon was raised at Canemah, by Mr. J. P. Blanchard. ......A postoffice has been established at Cuttingsville, and one in the Union School House neighborhood, called Dementt, another in the vicinity known as Foster's is called Eagle Creek. All are in Clackamas county, and they get their mail by the new route from Portland to Silverton......We learn of a painful accident, resulting in death, in Springwater precinct. On Friday of last week two little sons of Mr. Martin went out with a team of horses to get a load of wood. On the road home one of the lines got under the tail of one of the horses when the animal commenced to kick. Kicking over the wagon tongue he hit his mate, which resulted in a runaway. The eldest of the two boys was thrown from the load, and not badly injured. The smaller one, aged about 12 years, held to the wagon for some time, but was finally thrown off so that the wheels passed over his body obliquely, causing such injuries as produced death in about eight hours......Antoine Henri Kersting yet remains in the county jail, awaiting an opportunity when he will be taken to the penitentiary at Salem, to serve during the term of his natural life, for the crime of which he has just been convicted and sentenced. Kersting is a young man, about 30 years of age, a German by birth, of good parentage, and some scholarly attainments. He says that his life has not been what it should have been. Twice he has been sent for from Germany by his father, and returned home. This last time his father refused to send him money to return with, unless he would consent to stay. It was [illegible] that Kersting had served in the rebel army, but this is a mistake. He did enlist as a teamster, and thus served the Federal army in one of the Southern campaigns for three months. He still protests that the killing of Riecke was accidental, and that although he took the old man's money and bartered away jewelry, he did so not knowing what do, nor where he was to go.

THE "LIVE YANKEE."—This bark has been aground at Swan Island Bar since Friday night. The Ranger started at 9 o'clock last evening to go down and make an attempt at high tide to pull her off. In case of failure to get her afloat Capt. Fisher intended to lighten her of a portion of her freight. The following is a copy of the Live Yankee's manifest: Hurgen & Shindler 2 pkg, Henry Failing 424, State Department care of A & L 1, E J Northrup & Co 494, [illegible] Beattie 11, diamond H P 232, S & P, care of Camp & Co 31, A Hayward 300, Smith & Davis 30, G H G, care McC M & Co, 56, Knapp & Burrell 378, Willamette Iron Works 172, A Meir 48, J [illegible] Breck 20, diamond (S) P 405, Hodge, Calef & Co 102, diamond (D M) P 75, F A K 540, Corbitt & Macleay 3068, [illegible] 30, M Seller 120, K A Hawley 26, Bernardi Bros, 400, Millard & Vanschuyver 165, McC 86, Wm Eilis 15, Summers & Ellis 22, Capt A D Wass 5, Capt Flavel 44, H W Corbett 207, M & R 22, Robinson & Lake 344, Prag & Wilson 5, French & Gilman care of Camp & Co 287, Chapman & Co 5, McCraken, Merrill & Co 1, Goodnough & Clark 100, Underhill & Co 109, P 69, I L & Bro 72, I P & Co care of I L & B 74, I Schwartz 14, [illegible] (T) G 4, S B Lakin 21, Emil, Lowenstein & Co 35, T H M 500 Goodwin 3, B F Smith 100, Friedman & Co 48, L May 10, [illegible] 104, J Selling 80, Hume & Co 583, [illegible] M/12, Comstock 8, E F S, G & G 15, A M B, S G Smith 330, J Seller 2, I & B 50.

The bundle of the 31st, arrived Friday evening from the South. We infer from the letters that the other bundles had not been heard from at all. One of the letters is from Mr. Kelley the postmaster, who states [illegible] "[illegible] in your (Oregonian) office or in the post-office." The papers were properly mailed from the Oregonian [illegible].

GOOD TEMPLARS IN IDAHO.—The Boise Statesman of the 25th ult. speaks of the institution of a lodge of Good [illegible], on Boise river, on the 23d ult. by Deputy R. W. [illegible] Templar T. E. Bramhall, formerly of this city, and says: "This makes the ninth Lodge of the Order in this Territory. Only one more is necessary to obtain a Grand Lodge Charter, and there is every prospect of an addition of two or three more within a few weeks. Those already [illegible] are rapidly increasing their membership, and no doubt upon the organization of a Grand Lodge, Idaho Territory will show quite an array of Good Templars."

DR. C. W. COOL

Has Returned to Portland, and can be found at his residence on Third St., bet. Alder and Washington.

Those who desire FIRST-CLASS DENTAL SERVICES might do well to give him a call. He is making a NEW AND IMPROVED VULCANITE PLATE; the nature of his improvement consists in lining the entire concave surface with fine gold; it makes the plate twice as strong and one-third times thinner than the common vulcanite plate. It also prevents the acids of the mouth from roughing the plate, and from turning it black, which is a common occurrence. One-half of the common vulcanite plates turn black after being in use a short time, particularly where tobacco is used for smoking. His new style of plate admits of a very fine finish on the concave or palate surface. His office is the only place where such work can be had. The improvement is his own invention, for which he has made application to the United States Patent Office for a patent. He has been making this style of work for the last two-and-a-half years, and has specimens of the work which can be seen at his residence and office on Third street. This work has given satisfaction to every case.

Price for upper teeth, $50; full set, upper and lower, $75 00. no3ldtf

The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless buyers should be forewarned, and put on their guard against this practice.

HOSTETTER'S

CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS!

A Pure and Powerful Tonic,

Corrective and Alterative, of wonderful efficacy in Diseases of the STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.

PROTECTIVE PROPERTIES.

Prevents Fever and Ague and Billious Remittent Fevers; Fortifies the System against Miasma and the evil effects of unwholesome water; invigorates the organs of digestion and the bowels; Steadies the Nerves and tends to Prolong Life.

REMEDIAL PROPERTIES.

Cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Sick and Nervous Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation, Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Sea Sickness, Cramps and Spasms, and all complaints of either sex arising from Bodily Weakness, whether inherent in the system or

PRODUCED BY SPECIAL CAUSES.

NOTHING THAT IS NOT WHOLESOME, GENIAL, and restorative in its nature, enters into the composition of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind; no deadly botanical element, no fiery excitant; but is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants, with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants.

The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated, and the appetite restored by this Tonic, and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia, and in less confirmed forms of Indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless aperient, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs.

Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous Attacks, Lowness of Spirits, and Fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is conclusive, and from both sexes.

As a Genuine Tonic, HOSTETTER'S BITTERS produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of Constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and Debility and Decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-enforce and re-establish them.

Last, but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acrid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day.

Somebody s Child

Sweet face set in its golden hair
Violet eyes and cheeks of rose
Rounded chin with a dimple there

Tender eyes where the shadows sleep
Lit f is within by a secret ray
Tender eyes that will shine like stars
When love and womanhood come this way;

Scarlet lips with a story to tell—
Blessed be he who shall first it out
Who shall learn the eyes deep secret well
And read the heart wit never a doubt

Then you will tremble scarlet lips
Then you will crimson vellest cheeks
Eyes will brighten and blushes will burn
When the one true lover bends and speaks

But she s only a child now as you see,
Only a child in her careless grace
When love and womanhood come this way
Will anything sadden the flower like face?

NASBY

NASBY DICTATES A SPEECH

Post Offis, Confederit X Roads, (wich is in the Stait uv Kentucky) Sept 30 1867

From Oblo ito Washington! Ther is nary peace for me! The sole uv my foot knows no rest When Demoorley is in danger, there am I I wuz called to Washington to consult with the friends uv the President in regard to the Antetam Dedicashun The part his Eggslency wuz to take in that affair—wat he wuz to say ez well ez who wuz to say it, wuz a matter wich required not only profound thought, but the most careful consideration. Hence I wuz called

I found assembled the antire Cabinet, with the addition of Binckley, a gentleman recently arrived from a foreign mission named McCracken, Gov Swan, uv Maryland, ex Gov Bradford, the post uv the day, Gen. McPounder, late uv Gen Lee's Staff, now uv the Maryland Melishy, Kernel Screw, ditto, and twelve or twenty more who had held places uv trust and profit under the Confederacy, and who wuz now holdin corresponding positions under the Govner of Maryland, all uv wich wuz a discussin the various pints involved in this matter. The President had prepared a speech wich covered thirty-eight pages of logic cap paper, and it wuz suggested that he read it In the impressive manner for wich he is celebrated, he began

"Fellow countrymen—"

"I object to the frase" said General McPounder. "Its liable to misconstrucshun Sposin that upon that stool sherd be them wich, doorin the [illegible] to wich lost me my niggers, wuz in the Fedral army? I object to bein considered the fellow uv sich"

The objecshun was finally got over by the President's [illegible] to turn, ez he uttered the words, to the Maryland delegation, wich satisfied em, ez the mor ultra felt it wuz enuff of the President at shood address himself exclosively to Maryland Dimokrats ez his countrymen. He pro [illegible]

"Gath ed together onto a field wich the valor of loyal arms [illegible] forever memorable—"

Gov. Swann objected. He wuz for conciliation How sood our Southern brethren who had taken the oath be conciliated of the fact that they wuz [illegible] wuz bein continually flung at em? Be- [illegible] the word "loyal" wuz offensive to the heft of the Democracy. Seward thought of references wuz made to the late onpl [illegible] they ought to be diluted I sustained the objecshun and it wuz stricken out The President resoomed

"Fillin this day an uncommon solemnity, standin ez we do over the mortal remains uv the thousands wich died in the sacred cause uv liberty and in defense uv the flag uv our coun——

"Hold!" sed the impetuous Maryland General, "I protest! In the name uv Maryland I protest. Shel the Conservatives uv that glorious State be insulted by allu nsions to liberty, ur wich they are deprived, an to the flag wich is the symbol of opp ion, and under wich we didn't fight?"

I [illegible] in [illegible] objecshun, and that wuz struck out. He went on.

"When I cast my eye over this field and let it rest for a instant on this spot where the impetuous [illegible] was driv southward by our brave [illegible]

[illegible] that on sich an occasion it wood be perhaps better not to mention the parti [illegible] in wich anybody wuz driven; I [illegible] read, I wood say, thus " On this spot, wh the impe [illegible] was driven by our brave [illegible] Left thus it wood st be so [illegible] It wood read as well South ez North, for [illegible]

[illegible]

"The P [illegible] then wanted to know what in thunder he should say Feeling that he must say [illegible] for him the follerin remarks:

"My Feller Countrymen I appear afore you, not for the purpose uv makin any lengthy remarx I [illegible] to express my approbashun uv the ceremony wich hev taken place My appearance is the sign wich I will make. I cood make a [illegible] wich wood tetch yoor feelins, but my thots is in communion with the dead uv both sides whose deeds we are here to commemorate I shal not at [illegible] p to give utterance to the feelins and [illegible] inspired by the ceremonies uv the day Not any. I shel [illegible] no sich thing I am here to give countenance to the partisan [illegible] [illegible] upon [illegible] but I must be permitted to hope that we may foller the example set us by the illustrious dead—uv both sides—who fell in the [illegible] struggle uv battle, and who sleep silent in [illegible] who sleep in [illegible] and peace after the conflict hez over. Wood to God that we uv the livin wood emulate their example ez they lay [illegible] in the tooms Wood that we cood live, ez do the silent dead, in p t and friendship. Yes, in peace and friendship ez do the [illegible] uv both sides. You, my fellow countrymen, hev my earnest wishes ez you hev had my efforts in time gone by in the most tryin perils to restore peace and harmony to our distracted and divided country, and you shel hev my last efforts in vindication uv the flag uv the republic, and the Constitooshun uv our fathers !"

I endeavored in this to preserv, ez nearly ez p [illegible], the singularly beautiful and toochin style uv the President to that the [illegible] thousands who shood hear it mite recognize it to wunst ez hizzen The last sentence wuz objected to The Marylanders didn't know whether they could sit in silence and hear sich talk about the "flag uv the republic," and the "Constitution uv our fathers." But they wuz overruled It wuz held, and properly, too, I think, that the Constitution uv our fathers should be understood ez meanin that instrument afore the Ablishnists had knockt out uv it all that made it lovely in the eye uv Maryland—the nigger—and the flag ez it wuz at that [illegible] They were finally satisfied with it, and Binckley teched up the spee in some minor pints for delivery

I didn't stay to the celebrashun, for I hed bisness elsewh [illegible] I writ the President's speech, so I knew that wuz rite I herd Bradford s orashun read and wuz pleased with it. It wuz a powerful apology for the Northern soldiers and must hev hed a good effect onto the Southern mind Feeling that it wuz all rite, I left agin for my field uv labor. Wat the President would do without me, I don't know

TAXATION OF U S BONDS —During the last couple of weeks a discussion on the subject of U S Bonds has been in progress between the two Portland dailies, and closed a few days ago The OREGONIAN examined the subject in both a political and legal point of view, and has won as complete a logical triumph as ever fell to the lot of mental championship The question has been before the U S Supreme Court since 1819 the last in 1862 before that notorious old rebel sympathizer, Chief Justice Taney The Federal constitution is declared, by the highest legal decisions, to provide against such power being exercised by the States and that public policy should deny such power to the States at all times, as it might peril national safety as would have been the case in the Democratic States during the rebellion This power was reverted from the States at the foundation of the Government, and has been upheld by what the Copperhead party class as Democratic Judges from that time to the present The rebel sympathizers are great sticklers for the Constitution and Supreme Court declaring them both as Democratic fortresses now we should ask them what they intend to say and do in regard to the opinions of Marshall and Taney if they should ever get power —Albany Journal

THE ROYAL BALSAM !

HAS NOW BEEN BEFORE THE PUBLIC FOR A length of time and wherever used is highly recommended, never failing in a single instance to give permanent relief when timely used, and we have never known a single case of dissatisfaction, but on the contrary all are delighted with it and speak in the highest terms of its magical effects. The astonishing efficacy of the ROYAL BALSAM, in curing the diseases for which it is recommended entitles it to the highest rank among the list of medicines, and no family can be without it after once trying it

Read the following testimonials from some of the most prominent citizens of Oregon

MIRACULOUS CURE.

DR. HENLEY—Dear Sir I feel it but a duty to inform you and the public what a miraculous effect your Royal Balsam had on my wife. She had been affected with a severe cough for several weeks, which had assumed a dangerous feature for which many physicians have been trying without any material benefit and all the remedies failed to give her any relief. Without relief was got I feared for the worst, in her present condition The cough appeared to be worse at night she could get no sleep when Mr Randall, of this place, advised me to try your Royal Balsam; all other remedies having failed I concluded to try it and I purchased two bottles Strange to say, by the time I gave her three spoonsful of the Balsam she got relief, and slept, a thing she had not done for three nights previous. By the time she had taken one bottle the cough was checked Its effect was truly miraculous as the cure was effectual. hence, I have no hesitation in recommending the Royal Balsam to all who are afflicted, and it appears astonishing to me that medicine of such great merit, and I might say magical effect is not more in use My candid opinion is, if persons use it once, they never be without it in the house

Vancouver, March 1 1867 H COCHRAN

From Wm. Doty.

North Yamhill July 15 1867

DEAR DR. HENLEY—It is with sincere gratitude I undertake to write to you, what your Royal Balsam has done for me For the last 12 years I have been afflicted with a severe cough and what also some of the physicians called the Bronchitis, and have spent a fortune to get cured, trying all the physicians and remedies I could get to no purpose Through the influence of my neighbors (for your have a great name with them here) I got a bottle of your Royal Balsam, and finding that it relieved me considerable I sent for a half dozen more And now after one month using it I am perfectly cured I gained ten pounds within a month and feel quite a different man I send you this for publication for the benefit of humanity that through my experience others in affliction may be relieved as I have been Yours truly

WILLIAM DOTY

From Sophia M. Holman.

DEAR DR HENLEY—It is my duty to inform you and the public what a miraculous effect your Royal Balsam had on my children Two of them had a very bad cough and cold I got a bottle of the Royal Balsam and gave them some at bedtime and some in the morning and that was all that was needed to cure them I was astonished at not hearing them cough again but so it was I find if you give it in larger doses it will make the children throw up in an instant and I think every mother ought to have a bottle of your Royal Balsam in the house in case a child should get the croup for which it is a sure remedy as it acts like magic on children What I have seen and heard from my neighbors about the Royal Balsam I would sooner depend on it than on any prescription from any physician I have lost two children within the last year of the same disease, had I had at the time some of the Royal Balsam I am confident my dear ones would be alive now I shall always recommend it to all my friends for I consider it a blessing and godsend to mankind

Yours truly, SOPHIA M HOLMAN

From Drs. Bell & Parker.

We have sold a great deal of Medicine since we have been in business and now have fifteen different kinds of Expectorants for sale. But Dr Henley s Royal Balsam takes the palm from all! In fact we sell six bottles of Royal Balsam to one of any other kind—and really it seems of no use to keep any other During our experience we have never seen any medicine that gives the satisfaction the Royal Balsam does as is proven by the results daily coming in from the country of old Chronic cases, when nothing else would remove the dreadful cough they had I find it good for Bronchitis and Asthma We acknowledge it is a pleasure to sell medicine that gives such universal satisfaction

BELL & PARKER Druggists Oregon City

From W. F. Barber.

DR HENLEY—Dear Sir I had the Asthma for the last four years so bad that it came near choking me I tried all the patent medicines recommended for the cure of Asthma without doing me the least good till I was told to try some of your Royal Balsam which on several afflicted with the same disease has performed wonders I am using it now for a week and strange I say I have not experienced anything since and I really believe that I am perfectly cured anyhow I shall never be without a bottle of the Royal Balsam in the house in case of a similar attack and I have no hesitation in recommending it to all afflicted with the same disease

I am Yours truly W F BARBER

From J. H. Morrill.

DEAR DR HENLEY—I think it but just to you that these few lines should be made known to the public for there is so much humbug going on in patent medicines and quack nostrums now a days that I had lost all faith in everything in the shape of medicine I was affected with what is called Bronchitis for the last thirty years I coughed and wheezed for an hour at a time I tried some of the best physicians in the Atlantic States all the cost all to no purpose I could get no relief at all I really thought there was no relief for me in the world I was induced to try a bottle of your Royal Balsam and it had a most remarkable effect on me and before I had used up four bottles through left me and I can talk as loud as anybody my wife and neighbors don't know what to make of it My opinion is that if they knew the value of the Royal Balsam there is not a family in the country that would be without it I think there is not a better medicine in existence for Bronchitis or cough than the Royal Balsam and I conscientiously recommend to all so afflicted to give it a fair trial

I remain yours truly, J H MORRILL
